

Personally, I am not fond of recruitment agencies because most of them enunciate “We care about our candidates”, “We make sure we put you first”, “We like to get to know our candidates” and so on.

Honestly, I started finding it a bit hard to believe until I spoke to Prowess. I was browsing jobs on recruitment site with my CV uploaded, then one day an email received from Prowess which invited me to apply a job represented by Prowess Recruitment Consulting Ltd.. I was surprised that according to the job descriptions referred, it was totally tailor made for me. Therefore, I decided to apply and the experiences were so impressive. Prowess called a few hours after I applied and we had a sincere and harmony conversation to reach some understanding between each other. Prowess was even more supportive when we met in person.

I was planning to start a new career with various options and Prowess was really helpful in listening to what I’ve done, telling me what kind of job would be suitable for me and where to find it, and giving me ideas for the ways I could get into those particular industries. For a person like me, who had been working for a company over 9 years, leaving was a daunting decision not least because I had not been officially interviewed in a long period of time. Yet, Prowess offered the fantastic interview skills and guidance to me.

Throughout, Prowess took onboard my feedback after interviews and provided suggestions on my overall career aspirations. It helped me to walk into my interviews confidently and also, have the conviction to take the first job offered to me but to look critically at whether my own personality and career plans fitted with that of the employers’. I am proud of and appreciated for Prowess Recruitment Consulting Ltd. who went above and beyond its role as a consultant agency.
